

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

There are numerous people to whom we are grateful for their contributions during the preparation of this submission. It is probably better begun with the chronological sequence of events.

A very special note of appreciation is reserved for Professor Olle Edstrom, then Chair of Musicology, Gothenburg University, for providing the impetus to begin a mode of enquiry into practices in Singapore, for providing the platform to present outcomes of such an enquiry at a two-day conference on Music & Sociology at Gutenberg (Gothenburg), Sweden, 8th-10th of August 2002 which was sponsored by the Swedish Board of Science and the Royal Academy of Music and collaboration with The Department of Musicology, Gothenburg University. One of the most significant things to surface at the conference dinner was Professor Edstrom's wry comment- you now have sufficient material for a book. This submission has acquired an appropriate nickname – the Gutenberg Project. Another opportunity arose with Professor Edstrom's good offices. A festschrift for his sixtieth birthday enabled one of the many outcomes, Cultural dependence in question; an exploration of Musical practices of South Indian film in Singapore, for publication by Gutenberg University, Sweden.

Our deepest acknowledgement of appreciation and gratitude is to the National Arts Council for the award of the Research Grant later in September 2002 to pursue A Narrative History of Music, 1819 to the present. We thank NAC for the faith placed on us to be able to deliver.

Staff, support staff, undergraduate and postgraduate students of the Music Department, Visual and Performing Arts Academic Group, NIE, NTU have offered me immense encouragement and support in collating, compiling and gathering the research material identified. Loo Teng Kiat, Joy Chen, Samuel Ng, Brenda Ng, Wong Joon Hwang, George Wong, Wong Chua Sag, Suharti bte. Samuni, Benjamin Foo, Mindy Lin, Tan Wei Ping, are identified here. I am very grateful to A/P Chia Wei Khuan for his help in a co-authored paper, Xinyao; Questions of Culture, delivered at the International Conference on National Boundaries and Cultural Configurations at Nanyang Technological University, 24 June 2004, one of the many outcomes of this research project. A/P Ho Hwee Long offered great support and encouragement towards a paper The Band in Singapore; Presence and Practice, presented in the recently concluded World Association of Symphonic and Band Ensembles International Conference in Singapore (10-16 July). Dr, Larry Francis was most helpful in providing resources and contacts for the Hadrarni community in Singapore. Together with A/P Farid Alatas of NUS and the Al-Wehdah Ensemble supported by the Arab Association of Singapore. Paul Lincoln from the Art Department was most helpful with the digital technological aspects of recording, and converting data into digital format.

Staff of the Chinese, Indian and Malay departments of the Asian Languages and Culture Academic Group have been most helpful in pointing me towards directions. I am especially grateful to Dr. Seetha Lakshmi for providing the initial material via responses of her telephone interviews and catalysing the research into aspects of South Indian music and culture in Singapore.

I am particularly thankful to have met Mr. Clement Liew, a Research Scholar of the History Department of the Humanities and Social Studies Education Academic Group who provided very useful suggestions and resources with much benefit. Grateful thanks are so due to A/P Kevin Blackburn of the History Department and A/P Wong Tai Chee of the Geography Department for their ever-helpful and insightful comments and discussions.

Many more names are to be credited for the fruit of their exchanges. Eugene Lim, then Director of the Music and Drama Company of the SAF, Pauline Phua of the National Heritage Board, Joseph Pereira, Vernon Cornelius, Denyse Tessensohn, the management of Musicdreamer.com, students on the Specialist Band Directors Course at NIE who helped provide much of the details known to them as practitioners and experienced practices first-hand.

On a more formal level of oral interviews, the following are acknowledged:

1. Ken Chang
2. Liang Wern Fook
3. Jeremy Monteiro
4. Simplicius Cheong
5. Koh Nam Seng
6. Yusnor Ef
7. Sam Gan
8. Horace Wee
9. Mohd. Rafee
10. Mr. S. Sivam
11. Singapore Indians Music Party
12. Edmund Appau family
13. Ramli Sarip
14. Burhanudin bin Buang

15. Tony Danker
16. Ravi Shanker
17. Ranjit Singh
18. Sheikh Haikel
19. A/P Farid Alatas
20. Mahmud Bagushir
21. Dr. Larry Hilarian Francis
22. A/P Ho Hwee Long
23. Dr. Kelly Tang
24. Sarwan Singh
25. Gurcharan Singh
26. Bhaldev Singh
27. Amar Singh
28. Rudra
29. Shatriya
30. Narasimha
31. Vernon Cornelius
32. Recollections by Lawrence Francisco (Latin Six) as recorded by his grandson Jeremiah before Lawrence passed away in October 2002.

Our thanks are due to them in providing clues to reconstructing the many practices. While every care has been taken to ensure correctness with spelling of names, locations, places and events, dates and times, there have been differences and we accept responsibility for any errors resulting.