

Title : Substation 1992

Composer : X' Ho

Lyricist : X' Ho

A scene reborn, not long ago
Weekend stints, they came in droves
Grindcore, hardcore, they made the news
Then a headline stoked and blew the fuse
It was smashed, it was gone
It was lost to where it came from
It made the news, fearful hearts spoke
So back to nothin', our rock' n roll

A scene to restore is one that's broke
None'd dare admit to the killing woe
They point here, point there, beat around the bush
Point everywhere to keep it hushed

It was smashed, it was gone
(Sentenced by regimentation unlimited)
It was lost to where it came from (Banished to a no-life underground)
It made the news, fearful hearts spoke
(Stirrin' alarming paranoia)
So back to nothin' (and left to die)
Our rock' n roll

A scene was born...long ago (Sacrificed in agenda-land, a breedin' ground for intolerance incorporated
What a field day for paranoia, it was
We just can't let the music die again)
