Didn't they used to say we're ordinary
Didn't we take it as that and put ourselves down
Don't we all don't we all think it's necessary
To prove to them that we'll be
We'll be someone someday

Aren't you tired so very tired of waiting For something else, someone else to give us a hand
Pick yourself up, pick yourself up get ready
We'll go make a difference
We'll be someone someday

♪ That's right, we'll make you proud of us
You and me
That means that we should be happy
Let it come to us naturally

Look around, look around us weren't there many Who patronised, contradict us and pushed us aside

Sure there'll be despair
But don't let yourself fall

SHINE

Whenever you're troubled
When bad times are bursting every bubble
Don't get swallow up by the current
Or drown in the torrent of pain

Get lost in the city
Start walking away from self-pity
Just clear all the doubts from your mind
Look inside for the light and you'll find

You gonna shine, you'll make it
Shine awaking, shine and shake it away

Surely you shine, can do it
Shine, can prove it
Shine, and cheer it away
You gonna shine

So you've got problems
If you hadn't, you'll be abnormal
It's all part and parcel of growing
And living and knowing you wrong

When you must recover
From failure or loss of a lover
Remember you've only one life
So decide to be fine and in time

Life has it sorrows and downs
And your worries and frown everyday
So all your blessings you count and you save
I'm gonna shine them away

LOSING GROUND

So you think you are losing ground
And everything seem to be murky on the side of the road
Suddenly it occurs to you that no one's really on your side
And what's appalling is that your best friend's bitching behind your back

So you're one of those who needs a nicotine fix Every few minutes or so, otherwise you'll get a little jittery, oh misery
Reaching deep in your faded blue jeans
Just to find an empty matchbox
And those pathetic empty dreams

So if you think you're losing ground
And you can't get back on your feet again
Just open up your heart and open your soul
You're in control just hold your head up high

So you opt to discontinue the slavery of institutional offerings:

Think streetwise will take you further Spending your nights with unsafe sex, drugs and alcohol
That do you no good

DOORS

You think I know
What I must do
What hopefully lies ahead
But even though
I have no clue
It's something I'm not to dread

I'm not afraid to rise and say
I'm going for my dream
And should I fall along the way
Life still will promise some meaning

I must try
Since I've the chance
To open a hidden door
And I will fly
Just let me, once
I'll show you I can soar

I never dreamt
I'd come to this
The thought never crossed my mind
But fate will tempt with promises
Of treasures and dreams to find

I've turned away
The little things that I was forced to do
But in some way
Those little things are everything that I'm used to

I must try

Since I've the chance
To open a hidden door

For
Each single one
That I go through
There will be several more

Now I've begun
All I must do
Is open every door

Oh never judge a book by it's cover
Oh never judge anyone at all

So stand by your heart and never come back
With all the trash they try to put upon your mind
Just lift up your head and be aware instead

SOMEWHERE

Empty pockets and hungry eyes
A voice that calls from the heart
A mother calms her baby's cries of hunger

Angry words and restless nights
These are the signs of the times
But I still believe the sun will shine tomorrow

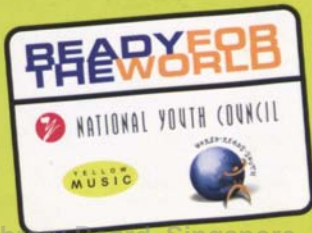

Somewhere in this world
There is a light
And it's getting stronger
Somewhere there's a dream
That's burning bright

Hold on tight to what we believe
Reach deep inside to your soul
Only the truth can set us free forever

Brothers and sisters
If we stand tall
We can reach the power of heaven
And rise above it all

Love is a stranger
A thief in the shadows that nobody knows
A voice in the wilderness
Is calling, shouting, stronger and stronger
