

Title : Turning Twenty-One

Composer : Dick Lee

Lyricist : Dick Lee

BEE

Just yesterday, my days were
Oblivious of the future
Nothing mattered more
Than what the present had in store
But now that time is ending
It's time to stop pretending
Nothing's gonna change.
Life stays the same, it has to,
Though it's often said
One is bound to dread

Turning twenty one
Though it should be fun
I'm not really done with my days of growing
Turning twenty one
And I've just begun
Desperately to run from the age that's showing
All the tantrums, prayers and tears
Won't erase the growing fear
Of turning twenty one

JOHAN

Just yesterday, your days were
Oblivious of the future
Nothing mattered more
Than what the present had in store

GIRLY

But now that time is ending
It's time to stop pretending Nothing's gonna change.
Life stays the same, gets better,

JOHAN

You will be a star

JOHAN & GIRLY

Sure of who you are

JOHAN, GIRLY & BEE

Turning twenty one
Really will be fun
When you will be done with your days of growing
Turning twenty one
You will have begun
Shining like the sun from the love that's flowing

GIRLY

All around you from your friends

BEE

All the loving that you send

JOHAN & GIRLY

You're turning twenty one.

I'm turning twenty one.

What lies ahead, I wonder -
Will progress bring us under?
What a cruel curse:
Responsibility and worse

ALL

No more naive excuses
'Cause innocents are losers
In the grown-up world
No place for silly little girls
No time to waste
Sharpen up and face

When you're twenty-one
You will start to run
Surely you'll be stunned by the brilliant future
When you're twenty-one
Baby days are done
But I promise one thing: you will get cuter

Kiss goodbye to precious youth
Dry your eyes, confront the truth
Of turning twenty-one
Turning twenty-one
Turning twenty-one
