

Title : Same Side Of The Moon

Composer : Corrinne May Ying Foo

Lyricist : Corrinne May Ying Foo

I'm looking out the window,
Where we sat to watch the stars.
There's a chill within the air
It makes my heart long for your touch
You may be miles away
But as I kneel to pray

I see the same side of the moon
That we'll be looking on when the world turns blue
And know that time and space can't come between
me and you
We share the same side of the moon
And though you'll never see all my tears shine
through
I know I can't be that far from you
If we're both looking on the same side of the moon.

I picture you across the oceans.
In your corner of the world
I pray the wind will blow my voice
And gently whisper in your ear
Your night may be my day
And though the seasons change

It's still the same side of the moon
That we'll be looking on when the world turns blue
And know that time and space can't come between
me and you
We share the same side of the moon
And though you'll never see all my tears shine
through
I know I can't be that far from you
If we're both looking on the same side of the moon
I know I can't be that far from you.
If we're both looking on the same side of the moon
