

Title : Somewhere In The Nightsky

Composer : Edmund Tan & Eric Lee

Lyricist : Edmund Tan

He takes the last train home
Christmas is the worst time alone
He sits in his easy chair sits and stares but he's unaware

Somewhere in the night sky
a little star shines for him And it's telling him that he's not alone
And somewhere in the night sky watching over him

She thinks of her kids who've grown Christmas is the worst time alone faded pictures rocking chair she sits and waits but she knows they don't care

Somewhere in the night sky
a little star shines for her And it's telling her that she's not alone
And somewhere in the night sky watching over her

How can I forget that love's the reason He came down to earth to be with me Christmas should never be a lonely season Coz I have a friend to set me free

In a city full of people each day
In many eyes a loneliness betrays Empty chair in a room for two Little things still remind me of you

Somewhere in the night sky
a little star shines for me And it's telling me that I'm not alone
And somewhere in the night sky watching over me

somewhere in the night sky...
